Rick O'Shay's Creator Calls Cartoon Dream Come True

The author of the satirical western comic strip Rick O'Shay called his creation the result of a lifelong ambition and a combination of interests.

The comic strip creator, Stan Lynde, said in an interview with a Kaimin reporter that "Rick O'Shay is what I've been after all this time." He said his comic strip was rejected by thirteen newspapers and syndicates before it was accepted in May, 1958, by the Chicago Tribune-New York News Syndicate.

Rick O'Shay appears in over one hundred newspapers throughout the United States and in France, Spain, South America, Australia, the Philippine Islands, Bermuda and Canada.

Mr. Lynde said while attending UM in 1950-51, he drew one cartoon for the Kaimin. He joined the Navy after leaving college during his sophomore year. During his years in the service, he created a cartoon strip called Ty Foon which was a satire on the Navy.

A film producer is considering buying the film rights for Rick O'Shay to make a television series or a full-length movie. Mr. Lynde said no definite plans have been made but is optimistic about the outcome.

Mr. Lynde, who is a native Montanan, said the Chicago Tribune-New York News Syndicate prefers

Dale G. Moore to Speak Before Alpha Kappa Psi

The president of the Missoula Chamber of Commerce, Dale G. Moore, will be the guest speaker at tonight's meeting of Alpha Kappa Psi, men's professional fraternity for Business Administration majors.

The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. in Territorial Room 2 of the Lodge. Mr. Moore is president of the Western Broadcasting Company which consists of KGVO radio and television in Missoula, KCAP radio in Helena and the Missoula Data Processing Company. He is a graduate of the University of Denver and held several positions in broadcasting stations in Colorado from 1951 to 1956.

to have its employees live on the East Coast or in the Chicago area. He requested to work and live in Billings because "Montana is my home." He also owns a ranch in the Lodge Grass area, where he grew up. The ranch is 160 acres and Mr. Lynde raises black angus cattle which have the brand RIK.

Next week Mr. Lynde will attend The American Newspaper Publishers Association convention in New York. Between 250 and 300 members of the National Cartoonist Society will be present.

Teach-In Planned By Peace Group

The Student Committee for Peace in Viet Nam met last night to further discuss plans for a teach-in that will take place in the middle of May on the UM campus.

A combination of faculty members and students will be chosen by the committee to speak at the teach-in. According to the group chairman, details will be worked out at the meeting next week.

Ways of increasing the group's strength on campus were also discussed. Joe Kerkvliet advocated two methods of accomplishing this. First, more services should be made available by the committee to the conscientious objectors on campus. Second, a program should be initiated to prevent faculty members from jeopardizing students by giving them failing grades and thus making them eligible for the draft. Kerkvliet said students on campus do not worry about the Viet Nam war unless they are in danger of being drafted.

It was also suggested that five or six people from the committee begin writing letters to some of the large newspapers in Montana. The purpose of the letters would be to seek different points of view on the Viet Nam war. The only way the committee can be effective is by making opposition to the war, a member said.

A committee was selected to take charge of the Peace in Viet Nam table that will be in the Lodge the rest of this quarter.

Students Vote On Changes Next Tuesday

The primary election for Central Board officers will be Tuesday, April 26, in the Lodge and on the first floor of the Liberal Arts building. The voting booths will be open at 9 a.m.

Students will vote for candidates to fill seven positions and on six amendments to the ASUM Constitution. The positions to be voted for are: ASUM president; vice president; secretary and business manager; two sophomore delegates; three junior delegates; and two senior delegates. Applications for these offices must be turned in at the Lodge desk by noon, Friday.

The amendments must pass in the primary election to be included in the constitution. One of the amendments, if approved, would change this method of constitutional revision.

If the first amendment, which would put the commissioner form of government into effect, is passed, applications for the commissioner posts will be available at the Lodge desk. The commissioners would be elected in the general election.

CRAM Corners No Candidates For Primary

The Campus Reform Action Movement does not yet have a slate of candidates for the spring primary election.

This is the picture at the moment but it might change, Joe Kerkvliet, CRAM chairman, said. He was unwilling to attribute the lack of candidates to student apathy. He named the pressure of studies as a contributing factor.

Greg Osborn, a student whose name has been mentioned as a possible CRAM candidate, said he will not organize a campaign. He gave studies and the Model UN in San Francisco, which he will attend April 25-May 1, as his reasons.

Osborn said he has told persons who urged him to run for ASUM president they could write in his name on the primary ballot April 26.

Enough write-in votes in the primary election would make him a candidate in the general election, May 3, Osborn said.

University Beautification Gives 'New Life' to Bricks

UM has purchased 200,000 to 300,000 bricks for $1,500. The bricks which surfaced North Higgins Avenue for 52 years were put up for bid last week by the city of Missoula.

The University's bid was one of five opened by the City Council Monday. Other bidders were Hendrickson Brothers, $36; Paul S. Alexander, $101.52; Glen Croucher, $500; and Thomas J. Poole and Harold Wittenburg, $550.

The University will have 60 days to remove the bricks from McCormick Park where they are piled. In an interview following the City Council meeting, Ted Parker, University physical plant director, said the bricks will be used for campus landscaping at focal points and gathering places.

He said the bricks may be used to build a mall between the Lodge and Knowles Hall, for areas in the planned University Center and new library building.

The City Council also received a written offer from a UM student to buy the bricks for $1.70. He planned to use the bricks to fill the city's chuckholes and crush the rest. "Although I doubt there would be an excess," he said.

Gabriel Marcel, Philosopher, Speaks Here Tomorrow at 4

Gabriel Marcel, French philosopher, dramatist, musician and critic, will speak Thursday about "Wisdom in the Technical Age" at 4 p.m. in the University Theater.

Mr. Marcel's writings, such as "Man Against Mass Society," "Creative Fidelity," "The Mystery of Being" and "The Philosophy of Existentialism," have earned him international fame.

The 76-year-old philosopher seldom teaches, but lectures throughout the world. He spoke in Missoula in the fall of 1963. In 1952, Mr. Marcel was elected to the Institute of France. He has received the Grand Prix de Littérature de l'Académie Française, the Gifford Lectureship, Goethe Prize, Grand Prix National des Lettres, William James Lectureship and the Froedenspreis.

Mr. Marcel, a Catholic since 1929, has often been called a Christian existentialist. He has long fought "official" philosophies of both church and state. Since his native language is French, he has sent his speech to Missoula to be translated and mimeographed. Copies will be distributed before he speaks.

He will be introduced by H. G. Bugbee, former UM philosophy professor, who is a personal friend of Mr. Marcel's and his host while he is in Missoula.

Rising Enrollment May Force UM Health Service to Expand

Increasing enrollment will result in the need for additional examining rooms and storage space in the Student Health Service, Dr. Robert B. Curry said yesterday.

Dr. Curry, Student Health Service physician, also said that the Health Service will probably need another full time physician to provide medical care for the students. He said that all facilities are adequate now but that an enrollment increase would cause pressure in the out-patient care department. During the recent flu epidemic the patient load hit peaks of 200 patients a day.

The Health Service building is now occupied by the Mental Hygiene Clinic, the Speech Pathology and Audiology Clinics and the UM student pharmacy besides the Student Health Service. The Health Service uses the second floor while the first floor is devoted to the other services.

It is possible that within the next few years the Speech Pathology and Audiology Clinic may relocate, Director Charles D. Parker said. He said this may be necessary to provide space for both the Health Service and the growing Speech and Audiology Clinic.

Discuss U Presents Johns, Behan, Ross

Tom Behan will explain the commissioner form of government which was recently proposed. John Ross, ASUM president, will explain the Summer Administration Intern Program. This program places outstanding students in summer jobs connected with their majors.

Each speaker will answer questions at the end of his speech.

Students Urged to Question Fee System

To the Kaimin:

The ASUM Fiscal Policy Committee of Central Board last week made public its 13 specific recommendations for changes in the spending of student fees for the coming years at UM. It is my belief that they are heading in the right direction, but they have failed to emphasize one of their policies strongly enough. This policy pertains to the decree by the State Board of Regents that 50 per cent of the student fees be spent on intercollegiate sports.

The associated students of this unit of the University system pay fees each quarter which in total amounts to about $200.00 + a year. (The exact amount is in doubt because those in charge don't seem to really know.) It is of this amount that 50 per cent (or that is the amount rumored) is taken by the University system to pay for the intercollegiate sports. It has been stated by the student business manager that "the University of Montana sends $88,000 on intercollegiate athletics," with the excess $11,000, which is the amount left from the 50 per cent, as a sort of cream on the pie. This 50 per cent of student fees are allocated out of the student budget by the State Board of Regents even before the students have a say as to whether they want 50 per cent of their fees taken or even if they want the fees to be used in the way they are.

My question to the ASUM Fiscal Policy Committee, or for that matter, to all the students of the University of Montana, is why don't we stand up and ask the Board of Regents why they have to take 50 per cent of our fees? Are we not old enough or wise enough to be able to choose how we want to spend our own money? Or maybe the Board is afraid that if the students had complete control over its budget that we might exclude from the budget some varsity sports that are not in the interest of the student body. Take for example varsity football at UM which had three games at home last year and which still lost money. Or maybe the State Board of Regents is afraid that letters like this, along with questions from the ASUM Finance Committee will bring to light the fact that the 50 per cent of fees allocated from the student budget is really, in the legal sense, a form of tuition, which is illegal under the Montana State Constitution.

So come on students, let's sit down and question the fee system you live under here at Snow Ball U. Maybe if we question long and loud enough the Board of Regents will change their policies when they meet here at Main Hall on June 1st and let the students control a full 100 per cent of their budget. Or maybe again, we can really find out if they think we are a bunch of rebel dupes who are trying to throw snags into the system, so much that they take complete control of the student fees so that all the tired old women of Montana can run this University the way it should be.

Soph. Disappointed With CRAM Action

To the Kaimin:

A couple of weeks ago, the Campus Reform Action Movement (CRAM) did something which disappointed me greatly. CRAM didn't back the new Commissioner form of government. In doing so, I feel that this organization failed immensely in its purpose, that of reforming student existence on this campus.

This Commissioner type of government, if passed, will increase the voting power of Central Board from a present sixteen members to a maximum of twenty-six persons. With this increase, the Board will naturally become more diverse, consequently reflecting more closely student opinions, ideas, and reactions.

Although CRAM's proposal (to increase CB to 50 to 60 members) is also designed to give students more representation, I feel that this alternative idea will fall short of its goal. The reason that this proposal would fail is because of its cumbersome size. Not only would a body of 50 to 60 people be unwieldy, but just where would we get fifty persons who are interested enough in student government to attend, say, every meeting? Also, to make a primary election worthwhile, some one hundred students would have to file for office—this, in itself, is an unrealistic idea. I think that the only logical action is to pass the Commissioner form of government.

It is logical because it will give us more representation than what we have now, without becoming ineffective through size. And this type of government will also give the small organizations on this campus a voice on Central Board, something which they don't have now.

You Made the Bombs Too Big

By ARTHUR HOPPE
Syndicated Columnist

News reports that we are running short of 750-pound bombs in Vietnam sent ace newsmen hurrying down to our National Arsenal of Democracy to interview its custodian, Corporal Homer T. Pettibone, U.S. Army Flying Corps (retired).

"Actually, gentlemen," said Mr. Pettibone, "I welcome this opportunity to reassure the American public that we have plenty of bombs in our Arsenal. We have fat bombs, thin bombs, long bombs, short bombs, wide bombs, narrow bombs and, of course, big bombs and little bombs.

"We also have, I'm proud to say, a vast stockpile of nuclear bombs, napalm bombs, gas bombs and conventional bombs, or 'bomb-bombs,' as we call them. As you can see by looking around you, gentlemen, we have in our huge inventory bombs of every conceivable size, shape and color to meet the demands of every conceivable occasion."

"What about 750-pounders?" snapped a grizzled newsmen.

"Now over here," said Mr. Pettibone nervously, "we have round bombs, square bombs, oval bombs and a new triangular bomb which shows great prom . . ."

"Where are the 750-pounders," persisted the reporter grimly.

Mr. Pettibone's shoulders sagged. "Well," he said, "there does seem to be a temporary shortage of those. You know how it is. Somebody wants a particular size and model. Then before you know it, everybody does. A fad starts. You just can't plan for these crazes. But rest assured, we're doing everything possible to fill the demand."

"Is it correct that you're now buying 750-pound bombs from West Germany and scouring all U.S. military depots for old, unused ones they may have lying around?"

"Quite correct. Of course, they have to be repainted and that takes time."

"Repainted?"

"Well, we feel that 'Das ist fur Winnie!' or 'Tojo, You Die!' do not express the proper sentiments at this time. But while we're waiting for the paint to dry, my associate, Corporal Partz has retired to the west wing with a 1500-pound bomb and a hacksaw. He is a brilliant experimenter and . . ." A muffled explosion shook the arsenal. ". . . but he was, alack, a visionary," concluded Mr. Pettibone, sadly removing his hat.

After a moment of silence, Mr. Pettibone visibly tried to pull himself together. And visibly failed. "I don't know what to do," he said, wringing his hands. "We've tried everything. We offer them 600-pounders and 800-pounders. No, they want 750-pounders. We send them shipments of three 250-pounders neatly tied together in a single attractive package. They ship them back. And they keep hounding us.

"SEND TEN MILLION 750-POUNDERS SOONEST," said one cable. We replied immediately: 'AIRMAILING YOU ONE FOUR MEGATON H-BOMB. KEEP THE CHANGE.' What thanks do we get? A rejection. They say it's not the same thing."

"There, there," said a reporter consolingly. "You've done your best."

"Oh, it's easy for you to talk," said Mr. Pettibone, tears of frustration in his eyes. "But how would you feel if you had millions and millions of clean, shiny bombs—enough to blow up the whole wide world? And they insist on doing it precisely 750 pounds at a time."

Grizzly Teams to Have Busy Sports Weekend

By STAN STOHR
Kaimin Sports Reporter

The University of Montana will unleash its athletic forces this weekend as all the major sports, with the exception of basketball, head for their respective duties.

The brightest spot on the weekend sports calendar is on the baseball diamond. The Grizzlies are heading for Bozeman with a nine game winning streak and a good chance to strengthen their hold on the Big Sky conference lead.

It's a cry you don't hear too often but, George Marinkovich, baseball coach for the Bobcats, is not too pleased with the results of last week's twin losses to the Grizzlies, 6-1 and 12-0.

"I was very disappointed with our play," commented Marinkovich. "I was looking for at least a split. That could have got us off running in the Big Sky. We must win two here this weekend if we're to make a dent in the league race. These are must games for us."

Marinkovich has said all spring that Montana is the conference dark horse.

Spring Football

Football coach Hugh Davidson expects more than 60 candidates to turn out for spring practice this Friday. Most of Davidson's prospects are now in the process of being checked on academic eligibility, physical check-ups and receiving equipment.

Friday will mark the beginning of 20 practice sessions within 26 days. Davidson hopes to run practices six days a week for three weeks. "We would like to get these practice sessions over as soon as possible so the boys can hit their studies without any interruptions," stated Davidson.

Scrimmages are scheduled for April 30, May 14, and May 19. These dates are subject to change due to the weather. Because of conflicts with track meets on these Saturdays, the exact time of the scrimmages will be announced later.

As soon as all the players have been processed, their names and positions will be given out. Assisting Davidson will be Tom Kingsford, Dave Kragthorpe, Paul Connelly, Larry Petty and Floyd Joramo.

Golfers Open

The University golfers swing into their first official action of the year against Gonzaga and Eastern Washington in Spokane this Friday. The team will then move on to Moscow to go against the University of Idaho on Saturday. The Grizzlies will return home on Sunday and prepare to leave Monday for a match in Pocatello, Idaho, against Idaho State University.

"The team is well ahead of last year when we lost to the University of Idaho and Eastern Washington and beat only the Zags in Spokane," stated Coach Ed Chinske. "We will have an added advantage of a practice round on Thursday, that we didn't have last year," Chinske added.

Coach Harry Adams will be taking his thinclads to Moscow for a dual meet with the University of Idaho.

The University tennis team is the only team to stay at home as they meet Eastern Washington Friday at 3 p.m. and Gonzaga Saturday.

Dad Drafts Son

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — George Wilson, coach of the new Miami team in the American Football League, has acquired draft rights to his son, George Jr., a quarterback from Xavier University at Cincinnati.

Young George lost his signal-calling job to Carroll Williams last season, but his father said Tuesday "he is quite a punter and I think he has the potential of a good pro quarterback."

Wilson added that he had told assistant coaches not to give his son a break, and said he would cut the boy from the squad if he didn't measure up.

Rights were obtained from Buffalo. Young George was a future draft choice of both the Bills and the Detroit Lions of the National Football League. His father chose him as a Detroit future when he was head coach of the Lions in 1964.
